SPRING PRIMARIES.

Will Be Held by Fayette Republicans Saturday Afternoon.

NO VERY CLOSE CONTESTS

Among the Opposing Candidates Westmoreland County Tangle Over Chairmanship Being Investigated by a Special Committee

Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 7 o clock the Republican primaries will be held throughout Fayette county. The elections will no doubt be very quiet as little has been heard about the candidates. There are no very strong contests. For the nomination for the office of jury commissioner there are three candidates: William T Kennedy of South Union township, George W Brawner of North Union and Samuel R Means of Dunbar. Two are running for poor director: James F Grable and Elijah Crossland. Grable is from Redstone and Crossland from Menallen.

The five delegates to the State convention will be Mart A Keefer of Uniontown, W W Darrell of Masontown, R B Shaw of Connellsville, David D Johnston of North Union and Ernest F Fletcher of Georges.

In Connellsville the First, Second and Third wards will select three delegates to the county convention and the Fourth Ward four. Two central committeemen will be chosen from each ward. The elections will be held at the regular polling places [illegible] throughout [illegible].

DEMOCRATIC WRANGLE

In Westmoreland County Brings a Special Committee

Greensburg, May 8.—The committee from the State Democratic Executive board appointed at the recent State convention composed of former State Chairman William T Creasy of Catawissa, W H Kin[illegible] of Erie and Emil F Ancona of Reading, arrived here this morning. The purpose of the visit is to straighten out if possible the apparent tangle into which the two factions of the Westmoreland Democracy have gotten themselves. The dispute is between George H Fingus and Henry S Ackerman as to who is the rightful chairman of the Democratic County Committee. Both claim the alleged honor and both with their friends have been sparring for preference for several months. Several hours were consumed in the taking of testimony at a secret meeting of the visiting committee and it is understood a decision will not be rendered before next week.

Each faction was allowed ten witnesses and they were allowed to tell their stories in their own way with but few interruptions. In behalf of the [illegible] faction here were called C Ward, Fisher, Greensburg; C F Hiller, Greensburg; Peter Wise, Avonmore; Lucien Clawson, Greensburg; H S Dinsmore, Greensburg; J L Kenrick, Penn; C F Shaw, Greensburg and J C Huffman, Delmont. For the Kenrick faction the following were called: William Cribbs, Jeannette; A C Snively, Irwin; W L Kelly, Scottdale; B M Bennett, Derry; Joseph Frantz, Parnassus; S D Rodebaugh, Sutersville; J K Clark, Greensburg; W E Holtzer, Greensburg; W D Colburn, Mt Pleasant and Alexander McMahan, Monessen.

Immediately after the taking of testimony the committee left Greensburg for Harrisburg. Farmer Creasy said that the alleged movement among the Pennsylvania Democrats to line up for Grover Cleveland for another presidential term is simply a hoax. He is not in favor of such a course and is of the opinion that the nomination of Cleveland would be a political blunder. He wants a New York man.

Last night about the Fisher House the atmosphere was decidedly chilly and members of the rival factions are rubbing elbows with ill grace. It is generally admitted that whatever may be the conclusion of the committee the tangle will not be unraveled by any means.

A NEW RAILWAY

Trolley Line Six Miles Long Will Connect West Newton and Webster

Work will be commenced the first of next week on the new double track traction line of the West Newton & Webster Street Railway Company to operate between West Newton and Webster. The line will be [illegible] by West Newton and Webster capitalists, who a few weeks ago secured a charter. It will be about six miles long and will cost about $20,000. The promoters expect to have cars in operation by September 1. In the building of the above line the valleys of the Monongahela and Youghiogheny will be connected and at West Newton the new line will connect with the West Newton & Greensburg Street Railway Company's line to Greensburg.

SKETCH OF J. M. BAILEY.

What the Post Says About One of Pittsburg's Pioneer Business Men

Of the late James M Bailey whose sudden death was recorded in the columns of The Daily Courier the Pittsburg Post says:

In the death of James Madison Bailey Allegheny county lost one of its really prominent citizens, a man who was an honor to the community and a forceful element in the business world. The pioneer iron manufacturer died yesterday morning at 5:30 o clock at his residence 127 Lincoln avenue, Allegheny after an illness of fourteen weeks resultant from an acute attack of grip. He was 70 years old, being a lifelong resident of the two cities, in which he was identified with many institutions. Mr Bailey was born August 23 183? in a dwelling that stood in the downtown section of First avenue, Pittsburg, which at that period was the leading residence district. His father was Francis Bailey, an early settler and the member of an old Irish family. The elder Mr Bailey came to Philadelphia in 1814 and six years later located in Pittsburg. He was a Free Mason and was the first commander of the first Knights Templars commandery in Western Pennsylvania.

James M Bailey was educated in the public schools of Pittsburg, later attended the private schools and completed his studies in the Western University of Pennsylvania. When he became 17 years old he embarked in the coal business in which he was interested almost all the remainder of his life. He was one of the oldest members of the firm of Phillips, Nimick & Co, owners and operators of the old Sligo Mill. Most of those [illegible] will man in this industry preceded him into the great beyond until he became practically the sole owner. [illegible]

DUNBAR COMMENCEMENT

Was a Pleasing Event in Spite of Recent Discord in Class

Dunbar, May 8.—The commencement exercises of the Dunbar Public Schools [illegible] the Presbyterian Church [illegible] evening at 8 o clock. [illegible]

[illegible]

Ross Kimball [illegible] but still the class [illegible] the class [illegible] Anderson [illegible] Mary Fimling [illegible] The Hold Time of School Life, Nann Millarr; oration, Woman and Her Sphere, Isabella Calhoun; oration, The Wheels of Industry, Stephen Greer Colden; essay, The Arithmetic of a Happy Life, Lannie [illegible] McQuiggan; oration, The Grand Old Man of the Transvaal, Charles Kimball; essay, The Golden Thoughts in Books, Lulu Belle Smith. This much of the program was interesting, entertaining and well received. As was stated in a county paper recently a good deal of feeling has for some time existed between a majority of the School Board and the principal. The senior examinations having been given by disinterested parties, the School Board reserved the right to grant the diplomas. These were accordingly signed by the president and secretary of the School Board as well as by John S Carroll, county superintendent and were presented to seven members of the class by Samuel Tarr, president of the board. The other two members of the class were satisfied with diplomas signed by the principal and presented by him.

The only thing to be regretted was the action of some young men and boys who forgot not only the question of self respect but the rules of propriety governing a public meeting, which had been opened by an invocation and was closed by a benediction.

New Notary Public

Capt Thomas M [illegible] is making some extensive improvements at his home on West Apple street. A front room has been handsomely fitted up for an office. The captain is now a notary public and is doing considerable real estate business.

Police Business Slow

Few arrests are being made by the police these days and few fines collected.

OLD SOLDIERS ASK SALOONS TO CLOSE ON MEMORIAL DAY.

Want the Time of Sacred Memories to be Observed With Fitting Respect—Memorial Day Arrangements.

At a meeting of William F Kurtz Post No 1[illegible] held in Old City Hall Thursday night a resolution was passed asking the hotel men of Connellsville to close their saloons on Memorial Day, May 30. The resolution will be presented to the hotel proprietors and they will be asked to signify their willingness or unwillingness to comply with this request through the daily papers. Some days ago the hotel men of Uniontown voluntarily agreed to observe holidays through the year by closing their saloons and Memorial Day was included in the number. The sacred associations that cling to this national holiday made necessary its observance with more quietness and respect. It is the day which revives the history of a country's bloody wars when thousands were slain on heated battlefields in the cause of Right and Liberty.

Each year the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are becoming thinner. In 1892 ?,000 Grand Army men passed to the great beyond. This was an increase of more than 5,000 over the death rate in 1901. Their [illegible] numbers [illegible] command the respect of a grateful nation.

At the meeting Thursday evening a committee composed of Lloyd Johnston, A I Barnhart and J K Palsley was appointed to arrange a program for Memorial Day. The regular routine observance of the day will be carried out. The post will assemble at their hall at 8 o clock in the morning and will go in details to decorate soldiers' graves in the various cemeteries of town. Later they will again assemble at the hall and will proceed in a body to the memorial pot in Hill Grove Cemetery where the usual program will be carried out. The Knights of the Maccabees and Spanish American war veterans will also parade. Rev Mark A Rigg of the Methodist Episcopal Church will deliver an address at the cemetery. If the weather is inclement the exercises will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

[illegible] the hand of death descends upon William F Kurtz Post between now and Memorial Day there will be no death in the post membership during the past year. Several old soldiers not members of the post however have [illegible]

SOME LOCAL SCHOOL MARMS MAY NOT APPLY FOR RE-ELECTION.

Board Will Probably Have Some Vacancies to Fill Next Term—Cupid Said to be Responsible.

It is said in educational circles that at least four teachers of the Connellsville schools will not be applicants for their positions for another term. A member of the School Board said to a Courier reporter this morning that the board expected to have at least that many places to fill for next year. And the task of securing competent instructors is not an easy one. The experience of the board in trying to fill places caused by resignations during the past term has demonstrated this fact. Good teachers are hard to get, in fact teachers of any description are far from being plentiful.

Ill health and a much needed rest the time of resignees give as the cause of their retirement. But it is hinted by some who stand close in their confidence that Cupid in his airy flights over the land has perched on the High School flag staff. Just how many arrows sped on their mission of love is not definitely known but the aim of the little archer is known to be unerring when he is in earnest. If this is true the School Board will have no love for Cupid, for he takes away instructors whose places are hard to fill.

Drop Letter Boxes Being Placed on the Principal Streets

Postmaster B C Ha[illegible] has received orders from the Postoffice Department to place 6 drop letter mail boxes in the borough limits to be ready for free delivery on June 1 next. The members of the class who were recently examined for service are awaiting word from the Civil Service Commission to learn their averages and are wondering who will be the lucky ones.

J W Lichtbe[illegible], former hotel man here and now of Humbert, Somerset county, was in town today on a business trip. He is now conducting a licensed hotel at Humbert and reports business good.

Constable B Ritter and Chris Yaggi spent a few hours in town today calling on old friends.

THE LIBRARY HUMP

Will Be Awkwardly U Shaped After Partial Grading Is Completed

A gang of men with ploughs, horses and carts are making good headway toward the grading down of that part of the "hump" on the Carnegie Free Library grounds that is owned by the Library trustees. In about a week the work will be completed.

The grading will accentuate the injustice of the decision of the Board of Viewers who awarded the Hogg estate $5,000 damages in round numbers for damages resulting from the condemnation of the ground by the Library trustees. Many people of Connellsville have had a wrong impression concerning the value of the holdings of the Hogg heirs. The grading of the ground owned by the Library trustees will show plainly the boundaries of the little triangular plot that lies adjacent to the Library grounds at the corner of Pittsburg street and Baldwin avenue. It will show that this ill shaped undesirable lot was vastly underestimated when the valuation was set at the unheard of figure of $8,000.

"Cranford"

It has been found necessary to give up the matinee performance of "Cranford" on Saturday afternoon because of the interruption to the work of the Library. On Friday night, therefore two blocks of seats will be set aside for school children at a special price of 25 cents each.

Carnegie Library is beginning its work of education at the foundation with one of the first principles of training: self control. The quiet movement and restrained speech which the conscientious librarian Miss Day considers so important is something new to American youth and teaches a lesson of lifelong value.

Won't Close Down at Point Marion

The shareholders of the Jeannette Glass Company refused an offer of $50,000 to close their plant at Point Marion, Fayette county, at once. Glass will be blown until June 30.

READY TO MAKE GOOD.

Tulloch Can Substantiate Any Statement Regarding Postoffice Affairs.

FACTS KNOWN BY MANY PEOPLE

Wants Replies of People to Whom Postmaster General Payne Has Written Before Going Into Detail

No New Developments

Washington May 8—The feature of the developments in the postoffice investigation was a letter by Simon W Tulloch for many years cashier of the Washington city postoffice to Postmaster General Payne in reply to the latter's letter requesting any information Mr Tulloch might have to sustain his published statement charging irregularities in the postoffice department and the Washington city postoffice several years ago

Mr Tulloch takes exception to personal comments of Mr Payne and refrains from giving any facts bearing on the investigation suggesting that the officials to whom Mr Payne has written have all the necessary data if they choose to give it. While thus refusing to give any information in the letter under the circumstances Mr Tulloch said that he is ready to substantiate everything he has said and that he wants first to read the replies of the parties to whom the postmaster general has written before going into details

Can Make Good Any Statement

Mr Tulloch in an interview said In answering the postmaster general's letter as I did it seemed to me to be necessary that I should put myself right before the public as the postmaster general alluded to me in the terms mentioned in a public manner and as he stated that the gentlemen to whom he wrote did not confirm my statements I reserve to myself the right to read the replies of those to whom he wrote as a result of the publication of my statements and to refresh the memories of the parties if necessary. I stand as I always have stood ready to make good any statements that I have made. Before going further into the matter however or exposing the evidence I have at hand I want to have an opportunity to read and criticise the replies of the persons mentioned in my letter. That is only fair. The next move now rests with the postmaster general

The postoffice department is making a careful investigation of its affairs. The facts I have stated are by no means new. They are known to scores of persons in this city and are known to Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow and his [illegible] tes. There is no necessity for my appearing as a public prosecutor in the case. I was willing at the time of the original investigation [illegible] Mr Bristow [illegible] the conditions of affairs in the postoffice department and the Washington postoffice four and five years ago with which I was personally familiar at the time of my retirement [illegible] an obstacle

Conditions are now more important than details

Efficient Man Removed

It is well known [illegible] V Gilmer the special expert [illegible] comptroller of the treasurer's office and one of the most efficient men in the service was removed by Comptroller Tracewell by order of Acting Secretary Vanderlip who I believe afterward repented of his hasty action and advised Mr Gilmer to ask for a detail to another and distant bureau of the treasury. Mr Gilmer had the written orders of the comptroller at the time of his removal prohibiting him from [illegible] affairs of the New York and Washington postoffices. A torpor as [illegible] to further investigation of the succeeding and still more interesting quarters of the year was made by [illegible] one else

At the postoffice department Postmaster General Payne and other officers [illegible] in the [illegible] The inspectors are still at work on the [illegible] of the branches of the department and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has [illegible] Mr Payne that he expects to submit his report on the investigation between June [illegible] and June 17. [illegible] recent readjustment of salaries of clerks in the presidential postoffices is being minutely examined and it is expected that the rolls in many of the larger postoffices will have to be overhauled

Used a Club If It Hurt Their Fists

Topeka Kan May 8—Sensational disclosures were made in the investigation of affairs in the Kansas insane asylum. A M Mason of Lawrence a former attendant appeared before the legislative committee and said that all the new patients in the asylum were beaten into a condition of docility by order of the superior officers. Mason said it was necessary to have the patients understand from the first that they must obey their attendants. For this purpose they were beaten even before they had broken any rule. In reply to a question the witness said that sometimes the attendants beat [illegible] with their fists but if they thought it would hurt their fists they used a club or the first time

SOCIAL EFFICIENCY.

Education of the Child Discussed by Dr. O'Shea, of University of Wisconsin.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS NEEDED

Our Schools Based on Right Idea—Do Not Develop Social Efficiency—Congress of Mothers Have Luncheon and Are Driven Around City

Detroit May 8—The night session of the conference of the American Congress of Mothers was devoted to a paper on Education for Social Efficiency by Dr M V O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin Prof O'Shea said

The chief problem of education in all times has been to make a social being The child begins life with the social instincts and impulses of primitive man Today we try to organize every educational agency to help him grow out of his primitive instincts as rapidly as possible

The first principle of social education is to give the child experience with his fellows Rules maxims and precepts count for naught with the child brought up alone Textbook ethics never made a man ethical Textbook psychology does not teach human nature Learning rules about social conduct never gives a child understanding of his fellows

The home is improving Parents arrange to have their children together so that they may learn to live with one another Our public school is based on the right idea but it has failed thus far to realize it Children live in school as individuals—they are isolated—they do not have given them take relations which alone develop social efficiency

Public Play Grounds in Cities

The greatest need of the times in the city is public play grounds under [illegible] where children may learn how to get on with each other This would be worth more than all the moralizing [illegible] churches and schools

The child must learn that social conduct [illegible] child [illegible] sometimes [illegible] from the natural consequences of [illegible] enemy The child before [illegible] years [illegible] conduct and [illegible] of [illegible] child [illegible] dence in [illegible] Modern life [illegible] the father [illegible] mother out of the home so much that the child does not learn to have respect for real authority Strong competent men and women can train children in social efficiency [illegible] acters never can [illegible] methods they employ The child is naturally [illegible] will be [illegible] by those who are stronger than he

The paper was discussed by [illegible] Hon [illegible] former regent of the University of Michigan

In the afternoon the congress [illegible] a luncheon at the Hotel Cadillac followed by a ride about the city

GOVERNOR LEAVES FOR OMAHA

Sheriff Has Fifty Deputies to Preserve Order—Wilcox Scoffs at Proposition to Call Out Troops

Lincoln Neb May 8—Governor Mickey left for Omaha in response to a request from business men [illegible] city affected by the strike An appeal has been made to the governor for protection in the way of state militia or otherwise but he is not satisfied that such action is necessary and will look over the ground personally No application for troops from an official source has been made

Omaha May 8—Sheriff Power issued a proclamation to the people and especially to the strikers He states that he has been called on by the chief of police of the city to assist in preserving order and that he has sworn in 50 deputies for that purpose The proclamation asserts that every means will be used to prevent violence and that vehicles of all descriptions and drivers will receive full protection

Secretary Wilcox of the teamsters union scoffed at the proposition to call out troops He said the strikers are making no disturbance and in proof of his assertion cited the fact that the police have not been called upon to make a single arrest except of several saloon keepers who have violated the mayor's proclamation closing their places

There is nothing for troops to do said he There are [illegible] men on strike who simply refuse to go to work There [illegible] men to take their places and soldiers [illegible] force them to go to work

Disastrous Tennessee Fire

UP TO US TO DO THE REST.

Mr Carnegie has done his part It is up to the people of Connellsville to do the rest —Uniontown News Standard

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IN COURT

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has rendered a decision upholding the court below in refusing to grant a charter to a Christian Science Association

The proposed association was to establish a place for support of public worship and to preach the doctrines of Christ Jesus as found in the Bible and the Christian Science textbook Science and Health Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker G Eddy

The Master to whom the application was referred recommended that the charter be refused on the ground that it would be injurious to the community to incorporate a group of citizens who would preach the doctrine that there is no such a thing as a contagious disease or any disease and practice the art of curing what are called contagious diseases by [illegible] prayer whether in the presence of the sick or at a distance

This view was held by the lower and the higher courts and is now the law showing that the law is sometimes the perfection of human reason

REPUDIATION

When Virginia repudiated a part of her debt [illegible] legislation and Governor the Nation pointed at the proud Mother of Presidents [illegible] unmoving finger of scorn [illegible] the repudiated [illegible] was the Old Dominion [illegible] the stigma of dishonesty

The fact that the State did not receive value for the bonds [illegible] which it [illegible] owed in the High Court of Public Opinion The [illegible] of the State had been pledged by those having authority to do so and that [illegible] must be redeemed

Connellsville's [illegible] in the matter of the Carnegie Library and what is more Connellsville has received full value for the appropriations she pledged [illegible] Upon her therefore rests an equitable as well as a moral obligation

THE HUMP

The grading of the fair ground will bring sharply into relief the size and dimensions and all the hideous ugliness of the Hogs hump which the Town Council has been trying to acquire for public ground

Few people had a just idea of just what this ground was Most people thought it embraced more area It is a forgotten and discarded remnant a shaving dropped by one of the rude carpenters who carved the town and never dreamed of the extension of Pittsburg street through the heart of School House Hill

The ground isn't big enough to utilize for building purposes It is fit only for Library ground and it ought to go to that institution free of cost

TEACHING NOT IN FAVOR

The job of teaching school once in such high favor seems to be in a fair way to go begging Teachers are among the worst paid labor in the country and they are waking up to the fact and seeking other lines of employment

The Connellsville schools have lost some good teachers this year for this very reason They find more pleasure and profit in sailing the unknown but alluring seas of matrimony or in the more prosaic work of making bonnets than in the noble task of moulding the minds of youths and maidens

The fictional fight in Westmoreland county is interesting and harmless It is interesting because of its activity which is [illegible] Presidential campaign harmless because the [illegible] Westmoreland is hopeless and a little more [illegible] won't hurt

Scottdale is [illegible] up to the procession of [illegible] to her improvements

The families of the chief opponents of the [illegible] are not opposed to that institution even if their husbands and fathers are The children are getting pleasure and profit out of it every day and we hope the pleasure and profit may long continue

The Uniontown Standard proposes to suppress christening parties. Just why wedding festivities should be permitted and christenings barred does not appear We protest against this discrimination against the baby and in favor of the bride when everybody knows that if it wasn't for the bride there wouldn't be any babies

Christian Science didn't have much standing in court nor could it expect much It is the policy of the law to take nothing on faith Everything must be proved

The Republican primary politics are so quiet that one can't hear their murmur The warring Westmoreland Democrats ought to take pattern from the peaceful and harmonious Republicans of Fayette

Dr. A. W. Chase Nerve Pills

Cure by Rebuilding, Reinvigorating and Revitalizing the Nervous System and Furnishing to the Different Organs of the Body the Power to do Their Work Properly and to the Fullest Extent.

If the person subject to attacks of dizziness or swimming of the head commonly called vertigo would only stop to realize that these symptoms are not a disease in themselves, not temporary ailments but the plainest sort of warnings from nature of grave troubles of deeper origin of an exhausted nervous system, of an oncoming apoplexy, epilepsy or paralysis, the matter would receive prompt attention. Dr A W Chase knew this and provided the cure in his celebrated Nerve Pills, a medicine that brings back the glow of health and strength by its power to furnish just what the [illegible] nervous system needs, good rich wholesome blood and nerve force or energy.

Mrs Joseph Shaeman of 326 Eighth street Connellsville Pa, says "I was in bad shape tired all the time, weak nervous and depressed more or less headache all the time I was advised to try Dr A W Chase's Nerve Pills and got some at Graham & Newcomer's South Pittsburg street drug store. The medicine is splendid. It gave me strength energy took away the tired feeling and gave one of life. My headache disappeared completely. I am sure I cannot say too much for the nerve pills as they made me well and strong."

My strength was way down—had attacks of vertigo when I was so dizzy I had to catch hold of something until it passed off. This condition certainly needed attention as it was growing steadily worse. LOVERS IN TROUBLE.

Negro Couple From Revere Had a Bad Mixup Thursday Morning.

BIG COON IN SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Attracts Much Attention—Keffer Equity Suit Hearing Set for May 11—An Illiterate Assessor

Uniontown May 8—Riddel Lovers a colored man from the vicinity of the Revere works was brought to jail about noon Thursday by Constable Andrew J Bowie. The facts leading up to the arrest are somewhat out of the ordinary. Earlier in the day Mrs Lovers came to town considerably excited and went before Squire Miller and had a warrant issued for her husband's arrest the specific charge being assault and battery. The trouble occurred in the morning when he went to correct one of the children. She interfered and in the scuffle she says he bit her thumb almost off. He denies this however and says she came at him with a heavy piece of iron. During the altercation she hurt her thumb on the iron. Unless a compromise of some sort is effected the case is likely to be heard in court.

A curious shaped stone adorns the mantelpiece in the front office of the Moran Hotel. Its peculiar carving and inscriptions bring about many queries on the part of guests. On the front side is carved the name of James Moran and the date 1847. Mr Moran prizes the stone very highly as a relic since it is a piece of the carved stone work from the front of the old court house which was built in 1847 the same year in which he was born.

The hearing in the equity suit brought by John L Keffer of Dunbar township against the Pittsburg McKeesport & Connellsville Street Railway Company has been fixed for May 11 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Bond was given in the sum of $ 00 with approved security. As heretofore stated the suit was brought to restrain the company from taking about 200 yards of a public road leading from Dunbar to Ferguson and which runs immediately in front of the plaintiff's property. The road was laid out by an order of court made in 187 and it is claimed it is the only outlet of a large number of citizens in that neighborhood. A large amount of the public money has been spent [illegible] in the way of repair [illegible] that the company could [illegible] other route [illegible]

Since the time has arrove for my spring reges [illegible] pleas send my books. The writing was equal to the spelling. Imagine the condition of a set of books made out by a man of that kind. This is another argument in favor of electing only intelligent men to public office. A man may be a political worker and all that but unless he can spell and write a legible hand he has no right to seek public office.

MISS DAY'S REPORT

For First Week of Library's Work Is Very Gratifying

The report of Librarian Miss Anna B Day of the Carnegie Free Library for the first week of the library's existence in Connellsville is very interesting. During the week 30[illegible] Connellsville people were registered as readers at the Library and 78[illegible] books were loaned. Of these 40[illegible] were juvenile volumes and 179 more were for adults. The children's department is greatly depleted on account of the great rush for books among the young folks.

Noticeable in the Library reading rooms is the fact that many children of parents who are known to be bitterly opposed to the Library and the special Library tax are regular visitors and none are more interested in the institution and its work. In all of which there is a moral that is not hard to see.

TEDDY AT REDLANDS.

Talks on Benefits of Irrigation and Preservation of Forests.

GARDEN SPOT OF CONTINENT

An Example Set for Coming Generations—Dangers of Race Suicide Not Alarming—Party Leaves for San Bernardino.

Redlands Cal May 8—President Roosevelt was formally welcomed to California before a crowd estimated at 10 000

In front of the Hotel Casaloma was packed a mass of humanity that stretched for two blocks east and west The enthusiasm displayed must have reminded the guest in whose honor the demonstration had been planned that California's hospitality really was what he cared it to be

On the corner opposite the balcony from which the president spoke 1 500 school children were seated on a grand stand As the president approached each of the children waved a flag and their young voices were often raised in cheers They also sang the national airs Mayor Fowler introduced Governor Pardee who in a brief address welcomed the president to California.

The great throng cheered itself hoarse when the president arose to deliver his address It was several minutes before he could proceed He said in part

Roosevelt's Address

I am glad indeed to have the chance to visit this wonderful and beautiful state, but I did not have to come to know you or like you, for I know what the sons and daughters of the state have done If I did not appreciate their achievements I would indeed be a poor American But for the country itself though I had been told so much of its beauty and its wonders I had never realized or could not realize in advance all I have seen Coming down over the mountain I was impressed with the thought more and more of what can be done with the wise use of water and the forests of this state All this valley shows what can be accomplished by irrigation and you are to be congratulated that your settlers had the foresight to take advantage of it

The irrigation system should be extended and widened Forest and stream should be used to build up the interests of the home maker for he is the man we want to encourage in every possible way I think our citizens are realizing more and more that we want to perpetuate the things both of use and beauty Beauty surely has its place and you want to make this state more than it even now is—the garden spot of the continent I congratulate you on the way you have built up these new cities in a way to illustrate the virtue of pioneer citizenship and at the same time avoiding the roughness characteristic of so many new settlements An example has been set for the coming generations to abide by

Congratulations for Many Causes

The young men must impress I with the idea that whatever we have of soul climate or conditions it must be the man who does the most toward making a state's or a nation's progress and greatness I congratulate you on your country your oranges your cities your ranches your industry and agricultural development and above all on the quality of your citizenship

Of all who are here to greet me I prize most the presence of those men who fought in the great war (turning toward the Grand Army veterans) Two years ago you welcomed here your comrade and my chief the late President McKinley

He did his part in war as in peace and if it had not been for the efforts that you and he put forth we would have had neither an American country nor an American president today In war it is necessary to have arms and accoutrements but the fundamental necessity is to have men You fought for liberty under the law not license You fought for the freedom that makes every man free Next I greet the future The sight of these children convinces me of the truth of a statement just made to me by Governor Pardee when he said that in California there is no danger of race suicide You have done well in raising oranges and I believe you have done better raising children Children I have just one word for you and it will apply to the older people as well It is this

Advice to Children

"When you play play hard and when you work don't play at all That's common sense for all of you

What strikes me most of all on this trip is that good Americans are good Americans from one end of the land to the other

Immediately after the close of his speech President Roosevelt was escorted to the dining room of his party the legislative party and the local reception committee Governor Pardee sat on the president's right and Mayor Fowler on the left The affair was informal and there were no addresses Half an hour after the presidential party the governor and other guests again entered the carriages and were driven over the city The party left here at 3 o'clock for San Bernardino. The night was spent at Riverside

CONDITIONS ARE NOT CRITICAL

Balkan Situation Causes Apprehension in France—Naval Division to Be Dispatched to Salonica

Paris May 8—The Balkan situation causes serious apprehensions here but the French foreign office says the conditions are not regarded as being critical and are considered to be largely the result of Turkish intrigue It has been the desire and expectation of France and other powers jointly that the sultan adopt vigorous measures to put down the Albanian uprising The powers received strong assurances that this would be done but the recent dynamite outrages at Salonica and the conflicts between Turkish troops and Bulgarian bands at other points have diverted the sultan's attention in another direction and have permitted a postponement of steps looking to carrying out the powers' wishes regarding Albania.

Turkey is threatening to adopt radical disciplinary measures against Bulgaria but the authorities here are fully satisfied with the correctness of Bulgaria's position and it is asserted here that there is reason to believe that the powers will not permit the carrying out of a radical Turkish policy against Bulgaria

In the meantime it is the intention of the government to send a French naval division to Salonica as a measure of precaution and in order to be prepared for a possible spread of the disorder

BURIED UNDER FALLING ROCKS

Nine Men Killed and Several Injured In Slide at Tunnel at Egglesten Springs

Roanoke Va May 8—Nine men were killed and five others injured three of them fatally by a slide of rock in the west end of tunnel No [illegible] at Egglesten Springs Giles county on the Norfolk and Western railroad Railroad contractors were engaged in double tracking the two tunnels and when the timbering force had removed the earth and stone for the entrance a huge slice of solid stone gave way on the mountain side striking the gang of laborers at work and crushing the life out of nine men

This strata of solid rock was concealed only by clay seams and when the foundation was removed this strata some 40 feet long fell without warning catching the men in a death trap One man was in a niche of the tunnel way and escaped with slight injuries He was removed without great difficulty A second man was only slightly hurt but three others were more unfortunate and were injured so badly that it is feared they will die The bodies of the other nine men some of whom are white are still under the mountain side

A wrecking car and derrick was taken out from Radford but thus far have been of no avail There is no likelihood that the bodies can be recovered soon as the rock will have to be dynamited and removed bit by bit. This is considered dangerous as the length of the strata cannot be ascertained and there is imminent danger of a second crash as soon as the base is removed and a consequent loss of other lives

It has been impossible thus far to secure the names of the unfortunate victims They are known only to the contractors and they can judge only by the missing members of the force One thing that is known is that it was a mixed gang composed both of white and colored laborers

CHAPTER XIII

"No, I have not found her."

"And are you going home disappointed, Mr Lorry, because she is not here?"

"I leave the answer to your tender imagination."

There was a long pause.

"May I ask when you expect to leave Graustark?" she asked somewhat timidly.

"Why do you wish to know?" he asked in turn.

"Because I know how hopeless your quest has been. You have found Miss Guggenslocker, but she is held behind a wall so strong and impregnable that you cannot reach her with the question you came to ask. You have come to that wall and now you must turn back. I have asked how soon?"

"Not until your princess bids me take up my load and go. You see, my lady, I love to sit beneath the shadow of the wall you describe. It will require a royal edict to compel me to abandon my position."

"You cannot expect the princess to drive you from her country, you who have done so much for her. You must go, Mr Lorry, without her bidding."

"I must?"

"Yes, for your presence outside that wall may make the imprisonment all the more unendurable for the one your love cannot reach. Do you understand me?"

"Is it the one behind the wall who instructed you to say this to me?" he asked miserably.

"She has not. I do not know her heart, but I am a woman and I have a woman's foresight. If you wish to be kind and good to her, go."

"I cannot," he exclaimed, his pent feelings bursting forth. "I cannot go."

"You will not be so selfish and so cruel as to increase the horror of the wreck that is sure to come," she said, drawing back.

"You know, countess, of the life saving crews who draw from the wrecks of ships lives that were hopelessly lost. There is to be a wreck here. Is there to be a life saver? When the night is darkest, the sea wildest, when hope is gone, is not that the time when rescue is most precious? Tell me, you who know all there is of this approaching disaster."

"I cannot command you to leave Edelweiss. I can only tell you that you will have something to answer for if you stay," said the countess.

"Will you help me if I show to you that I can reach the wreck and save the one who clings to it despairingly?" he asked, smiling suddenly, calm and confident.

"Willingly, for I love the one who is going down in the sea. I have spoken to you seriously, though, and I trust you will not misunderstand me. I like you and I like Mr Anguish. You could stay here forever so far as I am concerned."

He thought long and intently over what she had said. He smoked his cigar on the [illegible]. He saw in one moment the vast chasm between the man and the princess. The next he laughed at the puny speech.

Down on the promenade he could see the figures of men and women strolling in the moonlight. To his ears came the occasional laugh of a man, the silvery jingle of a woman. The royal military band was playing in the stand near the edge of the great circle. There were gayety, comfort, charm and security about everything that came to his eyes and ears. Where was she? He had seen her in the afternoon and had talked with her, had walked with her. Their conversation had been bright, but of the commonplace kind. She had said nothing to indicate that she remembered the hour spent beside his couch a day or so before. He had uttered none of the words that struggled to rush from his lips—the questions, the pleadings, the vows. Where was she now? Not in that gay crowd below, for he had scanned every figure with the hawk's eye; closeted again, no doubt, with her ministers, wearying her tired brain, her brave heart into fatigue without rest.

Her court still trembled with the excitement of the daring attempt of the abductors and their swift punishment. Functionaries flocked to Edelweiss to inquire after the welfare of the princess, and indignation was at the highest pitch. There were theories innumerable as to the identity of the arch conspirator. Baron Dangloss was at sea completely. He cursed himself and everybody else for the hasty and ill timed execution of the hirelings. It was quite evident that the buzzing wonder and intense feeling of the people had for the moment driven out all thought of the coming day of judgment and its bitter atonement for Graustark. Today the castle was full of the nobility drawn to its walls by the news that had startled them beyond all expression. The police were at work, the military trembled with rage, the people clamored for the apprehension of the men who had been the instigator of this infamy. The general belief was that some brigand chief from the south had planned the great theft for the purpose of securing a fabulous ransom. Grenfall Lorry had an astonishing theory in his mind and the more he thought it over the more firmly it was imbedded.

The warm blue coils from the cigar wafted away into the night, carrying with them a myriad of tangled thoughts—of her, of Axphain, of the abductor, of himself, of everything. A light step on the stone floor of the shadowy balcony attracted his attention. He turned his head and saw the Princess Yetive. She was walking slowly toward the balustrade, not aware of his presence. There was no covering for the dark hair, no wrap about the white shoulders. She wore an exquisite gown of white, shimmering with the reflections from the moon that scaled the mountain top. She stood at the balustrade, her hands clasping a bouquet of red roses, her chin lifted, her eyes gazing toward the mountain's crest, the prettiest picture he had ever seen. The strange dizziness of love overpowered him. How long he reveled in the glory of the picture he knew not, for it was as if he looked from a dream. At last he saw her look down upon the roses, lift them slowly and drop them over the rail. They fell to the ground below. He thought he understood—the gift of a prince despised.

They were not twenty feet apart. He advanced to her side, his hat in one hand, his stick—the one that felled the Viennese—trembling in the other.

"I did not know you were here," she exclaimed in half frightened amazement. [illegible]

He was standing beside her, looking down into the eyes.

"And I am thankful because of your ignorance," he said softly. "I have seen a picture that shall never leave my memory—never! Its beauty enthralled, enraptured. Then I saw the death of the roses. Ah, your highness, the [illegible]."

[illegible]

"It looks so peaceful up there," he said at last.

"But so cold and so lifeless," she added dreamily. There was another long silence, in which two [illegible]. They have not [illegible] he asked [illegible] to return to his proper sphere.

"Baron Dangloss believes he has a clew—a meager one and unsatisfactory one, he admits, and today sent officers to Ganlook to investigate the actions of a strange man who was there last week, a man who styled himself the Count of Arabizon and who claimed to be of Vienna. Some Austrians had been hunting stags and bears in the north, however, and it is possible he is one of them." She spoke slowly, her eyes still bent on the house of the monks.

"Your highness, I have a theory, a bold and perhaps a criminal theory, but you will allow me to tell you why I am possessed of it. I am aware that there is a Prince Gabriel. It is my opinion that [illegible] is guilty, not are the [illegible] this mystery [illegible]. Have you thought how [illegible]?"

She looked at him [illegible] her eyes [illegible].

"You mean [illegible] to your suspicion?"

"That Prince Gabriel is the man who sought your guards and hired [illegible]," said Lorry.

"[illegible] to marry him, and I should sooner or later have exposed him," she whispered [illegible]. "He could not expect me to be silent and submit to a marriage under such circumstances. He knows that I would denounce him even at the altar."

"You do not appreciate my estimate of that gentleman."

"What is to become of me?" she almost sobbed in an anguish of fear. "I see now—I see plainly! It was Gabriel, and he would have done as you say." A shudder ran through her figure, and he tenderly whispered in her ear:

"The danger is past. He can do no more, your highness. Were I positive that he is the man—and I believe he is—I would hunt him down this night."

Her eyes closed happily under his gaze. Her hand dropped timidly from his arm, and a sweet sense of security filled her soul.

"I am not afraid," she murmured.

"Because I am here?" he asked, bending nearer.

"Because God can bless with the same hand that punishes," she answered enigmatically, lifting her lashes again and looking into his eyes with a love at last unmasked. "He gives me [illegible] and denies me happiness. He makes of me a woman, but he does not [illegible] me a princess. Through you he thwarts a villain, through you he [illegible]. More than ever I thank you for coming into my life. You and you alone [illegible] saved me from Gabriel."

CHAPTER XIV

[illegible]

"And [illegible] Mr [illegible] with [illegible] to sit on that throne [illegible]. From its seat [illegible] grizzly haired statesmen [illegible] their wisdom and pass upon it as if I were [illegible] that may drive monarchs mad and wonder if my crown is on straight."

"Let me be ambassador from the United States and kneel at the throne, your highness."

"I could [illegible] a jest with the crown my ancestors wore, Mr Lorry. It is sacred, thou thoughtless American. Come, we will draw nearer, that you may see the beauty of the workmanship in that great old chair."

They stood at the base of the low, velveted stage on which stood the chair, with its high back, its massive arms and legs, a shimmer in the light from the lofty windows. It was of gold inlaid with precious stones—diamonds, rubies, emeralds, sapphires and other wondrous jewels—relic of ancient Graustark.

"I never sit in the center. Always at one side or the other, usually leaning my elbow on the arm. You see, the discussions are generally so long and dreary that I become fatigued. One time—I am ashamed to confess it—I went to sleep on the throne. That was long ago. I manage to keep awake very well of late. Do you like my throne room?"

"And to think that it is yours."
